

TALES FROM... a house builder

Exclusive regular feature by Roger Perry of Hitchambury Homes

Making a home - how to adapt and customise your home

Following on from my article last month, a lot of people ask me how long it will take to build a new home. A house like our detached home in Ledborough Lane takes about twelve months to build from start to finish. As a company we encourage our customers to reserve early and take advantage of the bespoke options we are able to offer. We have provisionally designed the home but this unique opportunity allows you to adapt and customise your home. The interiors can be built to your exact requirements, giving you and your family the lifestyle you desire without any of the hassle, Hitchambury will take care of everything for you. Not only can you have the perfect location, but you can also have your dream home too.

At Hitchambury we have a reputation for building homes that are synonymous with high quality, style and innovation and at Ledborough Lane our building team is already well advanced; foundations laid, ground slab on and external brickwork up to first floor level. Here in the office we too have been busy, if you live locally you will have noticed that our development signage has now been erected which shows an image of the finished house and has already attracted a number of enquiries. We are preparing the electrical layout drawings along with provisional kitchen and bathroom layout plans, as well as sourcing suppliers and discussing the latest products with them to ensure we can bring some of the new technology and design features of tomorrow to this individual property.

2012 is going to be an exciting year for Hitchambury Homes with a collection of exclusive developments with the first to view

early in the year, a true example of how we create "space and light" in our homes

But until then I wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year!

● www.hitchamburyhomes.co.uk