Making a home - a project in safe hands

Last month I spoke about us and our new development in Beaconsfield. The land was acquired after Terry Daniels our Land Director approached Mr Barrett direct and the timing couldn't have been better, as they were thinking of downsizing but didn't want to leave Beaconsfield.

It's not surprising as Beaconsfield is an extremely affluent area, with almost half the houses reaching more than £1m, according to a survey by primelocation.com.

Mr Barrett comments: "Having seen other projects by Hitchambury we knew they would employ a sensitive approach and create a stunning new home that sits comfortably into its surroundings. The proposed project is in safe hands."

After Terry's initial contact, we presented key planning information demonstrating the potential, along with a detailed colour sketch of the scheme, these were approved and the wheels were set in motion. We are now currently in the early stages so join me next month where I will update you on our progress.

HOUSE FOR LIFE – When reviewing the needs of potential customers and recognising the superb location of this development, we wanted to take into account the enquiries of those who wish to downsize without the compromise of apartment living, so we wanted to ensure space, mobility and a garden was something that could still be enjoyed. It quickly became apparent we should provide a lift, making its attractions now available to all members of the public, rarely found in today's marketplace.
